Description

Height of the tree only : 350 mm. Width of the branches : 200 mm. Meijiro variety, compact and still rare. Ideal to create a bonsai. Dimensions of the plastic pot : 180 mm of diameter, 140 mm high, 3-liter capacity. Green foliage with pure white-colored edges of the branches that turn dark green during winter with the arrival of the cold. During summer the young shoots are creamy white-colored. It comes from cutting so there is no grafting marks. If you want to plant it in your garden in the ground or in a pot, its pot is compact and the adult height of this variety is about 120 cm. This variety is one among the reintroduced varieties from Japan in Europe by Guy Maillot during one of his many trips to Japan in 35 years of plant passion.
